

Jacob the prince and his Dragon Enzo

There once was a little prince called Jacob. He was very brave, and so was his dragon Enzo! There were best friends and played with each other all the time!

Then, one day, Jacob woke up to find that Enzo was missing! And in his place he found. What is it? It looked like a lizard because it was so small but it has the wings of a dragon! Then, the small thing spoke "Hello prince Jacob! Sadly I have some N-' Jacob was too annoyed to listen, "WHERE IS ENZO!" "Well my master umm he has been taken. But do not fear, I am Here!

Silence.. And then Prince Jacob, he laughed! "Pfft! Like u would even harm a fly!"

"umm excuse me! Yes I would look! Blow on me!" Jacob did as he was told and blew on the tiny thing sat in front of him, Swoosh... The laughter started again as the tiny thing was now plonked on its little head on a rock.

"Nice try but I have a dragon to save," And off he went, On his way to save his dragon. But little did he know that was a bad mistake....

Walking through the jungle was horrid! Prince Jacob was Soggy, tired and only had a little bit of hope left in him. Just as he was about to fall to the ground, he heard a familiar roar, a roar that sounded like, no it can't be? Enzo!

Prince Jacob started running, sprinting through the jungle, running faster than he had ever ran before and he stopped at a very small cave. Prince Jacob reached for his lamp and lit it by the fire outside, Hmm strange, people must be in here otherwise why would there be a fire here?... He thought.

The entrance to the cave was a lot smaller than he thought it was. Suddenly he tripped over something soggy, He picked up his lamp and saw that there were other lamps and one by one he started lighting them. As he did little shapes were appearing on the ground and a snoring sound was slowly forming. After he lit the last lamp, he knew he was not alone AT ALL! Sleeping trolls were laid on the ground, And in the back of the cave was Enzo all chained up and very moody than what Jacob was used to. He sprinted to Enzo and gave him a big hug. He grabbed a saw from his Backpack and started chopping at the chains. "Pfft to easy they need to work on their strength!" Jacob chuckled. He climbed onto Enzo's and the big beast started flying. They had just left the cave when they heard the faint yell of the Trolls behind them calling "WE WILL GET YOU ONE DAY" And with that they flew of back to thier castle.

THE END